

MCCLURE
MUNTSINGER
public relations

For Immediate Release

Media Contact: Jana Muntsinger, MPR
jana@mmpublicrelations.com, 832-247-9308

IT'S TIME TO RECLAIM THE LOST VIRTUE OF NOBILITY

CARRIE LLOYD RELEASES HER FIRST US BOOK: THE NOBLE RENAISSANCE

Nashville, TN. – In a world littered with social media trolling, progressive liberalism and bitterness, author Carrie Lloyd emphatically believes humanity has lost the great virtue of nobility and describes how to get it back in her new book, The Noble Renaissance: Reclaiming the Lost Virtue of Nobility (Thomas Nelson, June 2020). Lloyd, with honest and poignant insights, shows how we can reclaim virtue and live a life of great character and integrity. The Noble Renaissance will be released on June 2, 2020 and is available everywhere books are sold.

For centuries we have seen nobility as a place for the elite, but never did we consider it an option open to us, the everyday man. Growing up in the UK, Carrie gives a unique perspective on the ancient term, nobility and how it was never meant to be limited to the aristocracy. Carrie uses wit and humor-filled personal tales, along with in-depth research and Biblical truths to have a raw and honest conversation with readers on this important topic and how our lack of nobility is impacting the world. She breaks down the seven characteristics of what makes a person noble—self-sacrifice, humility, courage, self-conquest, integrity, honesty and gives wisdom on how each can be activated in our lives.

“No matter your background, your creed, your race, or your preferences, the jaw-dropping, unique influence of the noble character is profound,” writes Lloyd in The Noble Renaissance. “Yet, is nobility—the father of virtues, once modeled so perfectly by Christ—in danger of being buried with bitterness, traditionalism, and the Amstrad computer? Are we instead becoming distracted with progressive liberalism, tribalistic kickbacks, failed attempts to rid the world of a Designer, and a penchant to become an art director on social media with our mother’s flower arrangements?”

Isaiah 32 is used as a key touchpoint for the book: “But the noble make noble plans, and by noble deeds they stand.” The finest characters in scripture often carried this descriptor in their back pocket, and such labels didn't always follow their wealth or power—but their integrity. Over and over, Carrie Lloyd poses the profound question: Could we become a little more effective, a little kinder if we consciously began to ask, “What's the noble choice?”

Carrie Lloyd is a UK journalist and author of The Virgin Monologues and Prude. She is a pastor at Bethel Church, California and a pastor for the leader's network of Global Legacy. She writes between her hometown in Stamford, England and her residence in Northern California. She is also the host of the popular "The Carrie On..." podcast. When not pastoring, speaking or writing, labelled by her students as "The Duchess," she has a penchant for good old-fashioned vinyl. For more info visit carriellloyd.live

Thomas Nelson is a world-leading publisher and provider of Christian content and has been providing readers with quality inspirational product for more than 200 years. As part of HarperCollins Christian Publishing, Inc., the publishing group provides multiple formats of award-winning Bibles, books, gift books, cookbooks, curriculum and digital content, with distribution of its products in more than 100 countries and translated into more than 65 different languages. Thomas Nelson is committed to one central mission: inspiring the world by meeting the needs of people with content that promotes biblical principles and honors Jesus Christ. Thomas Nelson is headquartered in Nashville, Tenn. For additional information visit www.thomasnelson.com.

###

The Noble Renaissance: Reclaiming the Lost Virtue of Nobility

By Carrie Lloyd

Available from Thomas Nelson June 2, 2020

Price: U.S. $18.99

Format: Paperback

Pages: 208

ISBN-13: 9780785231745

BISAC category: Religion / Christian Life

Review copies, reprint permission and interviews are available.
Contact Jana Muntsinger, McClure Muntsinger Public Relations,
832.247.9308, jana@mmpublicrelations.com

April 2020